CONTENTS

MAKE YOUR HOME YOUR SANCTUARY

WE'RE READY TO WELCOME thousands of homeowners, renovators, and design enthusiasts to be inspired and delighted at the Auckland Home Show 2025.

It's been a challenging year for many, yet our passion for creating homes that reflect who we are and how we live remains as strong as ever. Our exhibitors have shown remarkable resilience and innovation, continuing to deliver products and services that help Kiwis improve their homes — whatever the budget.

We know that, like their homes, this year's visitors have weathered a winter of discontent, but with Spring on the horizon comes a renewed sense of possibility. Longer days and warmer weather make it the perfect time for restoration, renovation, and reimagining spaces to be more comfortable, functional, and beautiful.

We're excited that the Auckland Home Show captures that seasonal momentum, bringing experts, ideas, and the latest innovations together under one roof. Even small, intentional updates can make home life more joyful, connected, and fulfilling.

So, welcome, take your time, explore the options, and plan for positive changes, this Spring, Summer and in the year to come.

SHOW HIGHLIGHTS

THE Sear 2035 Facility of redemptor

FREE DAILY SEMINARS

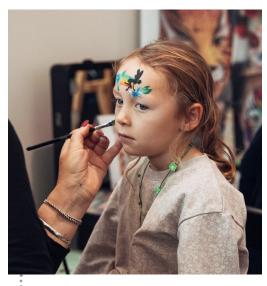

THE DESIGN RENOVATE DECORATE seminars, proudly sponsored by Resene, are where you'll learn all the insider tips and tricks to get your renovation or home improvement project over the line! With 14 sessions a day, covering important topics such as kitchen and bathroom renovations, outdoor living, colour trends, budgeting for your renovation, Al smart home tech, sustainable building and much more. Our expert speakers will give you the right advice, inspiration and ideas to complete your next project.

RYOBI MAKE+TAKE WORKSHOPS

STEP INTO the Ryobi zone and get hands-on with power tools while creating a project you can proudly take home. These fast-paced sessions suit all skill levels, with expert guidance to keep it safe and simple. Build planter boxes, birdhouses or shelves, and walk away with new DIY skills plus something you made yourself. It's the perfect way to test-drive Ryobi's latest tools and spark ideas for your next project!!

HOME MARKETPLACE

NOT EVERY business creating beautiful homewares can stretch to a full stand—so we crafted the Home Market Place in Hall 8 just for them. Near the Workshop stage, this vibrant zone spotlights local artisans and small businesses offering handcrafted candles, indoor plant accessories, bespoke lighting, ecofurniture, botanical art, and more.

OUTDOOR IDEAS

HEAD OUT to the Outdoor Ideas Zone and find everything to transform your backyard. Whether you're after landscaping solutions, turf, paving, decking, louvres or stylish outdoor accents, this Hall 8 feature brings together ceramic pottery, beautiful textiles, lighting, plus the full suite of outdoor living inspiration.

FAMILY FUN DAY

SUNDAY IS Family Fun Day at the Auckland Home Show, with extra FREE entertainment for the whole family. Enjoy kids' craft activities at the Bug & Bloom Station, take-home projects, face painting, interactive Mitre 10 Kids' Workshops, and the Puppy Cuddle Zone in partnership with the Saving Hope Foundation.

FREE HOW TO WORKSHOPS

DIY IS A KIWI tradition, but if you're new to the game, our adult-focused 'How To Workshops' will definitely get you started. Our experts will treat visitors to a variety of 20-minute hands-on demonstrations, covering home projects including installing wallpaper, creating an interiors style board, styling living areas, brewing beer at home, pizza mastery, choosing plants and planters, plus much more!

ALL-NEW OUTDOOR FURNITURE FEATURE

IF YOUR OUTDOOR zone is your happy place, you'll love our all-new Outdoor Furniture Feature in Hall 8. Gaby Muir Home Stylist from Finer Home Staging will showcase the latest Design Concepts furniture — from laid-back loungingto outdoor dining spaces. Get inspired by ideas that blend comfort, style, and durability to make your outdoor space a true extension of your home.

NEW FEATURE

TINY LIVING LANE & GARDEN FEATURE

Step into a world of clever design and lush inspiration with two of the show's most talkedabout attractions—
Tiny Living Lane and the Garden Feature.

A tranquil outdoor space by Parrot Landscapes—hear more from our Landscaping expert David Rhodes on page 45

TINY LIVING LANE

SHOWCASING just how practical and stylish small-space living can be, Tiny Living Lane is a must-visit for anyone curious about maximising every square metre. Wander through fully furnished tiny homes and see how smart layouts, multifunctional furniture, and creative storage can make compact living not only possible, but highly desirable.

LEARN FROM EXPERTS about zoning, financing, and building options, and gather inspiration for downsizing or creating a sustainable holiday retreat. Whether you're dreaming of a new way of living or just want to explore the possibilities, Tiny Living Lane is packed with fresh ideas you can take home.

GARDEN FEATURE TINY LIVING CENTRAL GARDEN

AT THE HEART of Tiny Living Lane, the Garden Feature brings outdoor beauty into focus. Designed in partnership with Parrot Landscaping, this showcase combines lush tropical greenery, sustainable native planting, and vibrant outdoor entertainer zones. It's a space where form meets function — offering ideas for courtyards, balconies, and backyards alike. From paving and lighting to planting pallets and layout inspiration, this feature garden is a visual feast and a practical guide for transforming your own outdoor space.

The kitchen has always been the heart of the home - the place where meals are prepared, conversations flow, and friends and family naturally gather. Today's kitchens are designed to be more than just functional spaces; they're open, inviting hubs that blend style, technology, and practicality. Whether you're planning a full renovation or refreshing key elements, designing a kitchen to fit your lifestyle is essential for a happy home. Here are some key trends to start your kitchen design journey.

DESIGNED FOR Togetherness

BEYOND the Pale

Paler shades in wood are making a stylish comeback to kitchens, bringing warmth and a natural, timeless feel. Light timbers are being paired with white or soft earthy tones and matte finishes for a fresh, modern look. This Kitchen Studio design brings light wood together with white marble for clean and airy effect.

STONE Statement

Statement stone and marble continue to be popular in 2025 kitchens, valued for their natural beauty and classic elegance. They're used boldly on benchtops, splashbacks, and islands. The splashback in this Kitchen Studio design is more than just functional, it's a showstopper.

CABINET Chemistry

A key direction in kitchen design is using mixed colours, finishes, and textures in cabinetry to create depth and individuality. Rather than uniform surfaces, designers pair contrasting tones—such as dark timbers with soft neutrals or matte finishes with high-gloss accents—bringing warmth, personality, and a custom, layered aesthetic to the modern kitchen. Open SHELVING

Replacing some of your upper cabinets with open shelves adds airiness and allows homeowners to display stylish cookware or decorative pieces. This Kaboodle kitchen makes great use of open shelving throughout the kitchen. Design it yourself with Kaboodle.

CONCEALED Convenience

Hidden sculleries are transforming kitchen design, keeping the mess of daily life neatly out of sight while everything stays close at hand. By concealing storage, prep areas, and appliances behind cabinetry or sliding doors, the kitchen remains calm and uncluttered. This approach balances practicality with style, offering convenience without compromising the clean, seamless look of modern design. This Mitre 10 kitchen features a discreetly positioned scullery, hidden yet handy.

LAYERED Illumination

Lighting in kitchens is increasingly layered, combining task, accent, and ambient sources to enhance both function and atmosphere. Under-bench and recessed lighting highlight surfaces and textures, while pendant or directional fixtures add warmth and depth. Together, these elements create a balanced, inviting space that feels both practical and thoughtfully designed. Soft under-bench lighting and overhead accents create depth and warmth in this kitchen by Rarebirds Interiors.

TILE Evolution

Kitchen tiling is moving beyond traditional squares, with slimmer profiles, elongated lines, and textured finishes. These non-traditional shapes add depth and interest, creating a contemporary backdrop that complements cabinetry and fixtures, transforming the kitchen into a refined, modern space that balances function with subtle design expression. Finger tiles create a refined, textured backdrop in this Kitchen Mania kitchen.

STREAMLINED Style

Sleek and streamlined kitchens are defining today's design trends, blending simplicity with sophistication. Clean lines, handleless cabinetry, and integrated appliances keep the look uncluttered, while subtle contrasts in stone, timber, and metallics add depth. More than style, these kitchens prioritise smart storage and flow, creating highly functional spaces that work as beautifully as they look. Contemporary yet timeless, they offer a refined setting for everyday living and entertaining—perfectly captured in this elegant design by KMD Kitchens.

HIDE and Sleek

The kitchen has become the true heart of the home—a place where design meets everyday ritual, and cooking is part performance, part pleasure. Ovens play a starring role in this shift, reshaping how we engage with food. NEFF's Slide & Hide® oven, pictured here, embodies that evolution with its ingenious disappearing door, blending style with effortless practicality.

NEFF HALL 3/4 STAND 436

APPLIANCE Impact

Today's kitchens are as much about style as they are about function, with bold appliances taking centre stage. From eye-catching finishes to heritage detailing, they bring character and flair to everyday living. "If your space is designed to function well and look beautiful, you'll feel emotionally connected to your home — and that's great for your wellbeing"

RENOVATING A HOME can be one of the most rewarding experiences – but also one of the most stressful, especially for couples. "Designers should really take a few psychology papers," laughs Kelly. "We're not just helping clients choose fittings and finishes – we're often mediating between two very different visions of a dream home."

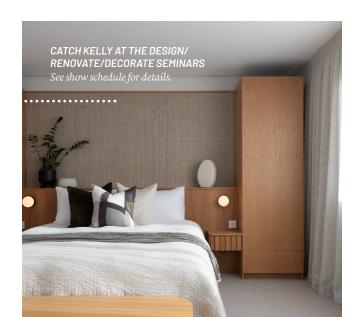

That's why she stresses the importance of bringing in a designer early. "Early engagement can help avoid the friction that often happens on site. We ask the tough questions before the build begins – and that saves time, money, and yes, quite a few relationships."

One of the biggest stress points, she says, is making changes mid-project. "If you've already started building and suddenly want a different layout or materials, you're doubling up on labour and delays. But if you've made those decisions upfront — with someone knowledgeable guiding you through them — everything flows much smoother."

Kelly and Sean balance their strengths across projects. "I'm good at firm calls, Sean's great with emotional support – it's a great yin and yang," she says. "We've worked with clients on projects for up to three years, and you need trust, honesty, and a bit of humour to get through that."

Her message is clear: whether you're doing a single room or a full rebuild, having a designer involved from the start isn't an optional extra — it's a safeguard. "And if you want your project — and your marriage — to survive," smiles Kelly, "don't leave it to after the trades have started."

RAREBIRDS INTERIORS, the awardwinning studio she runs with business partner Sean Monk. With more than 25 years of experience – including time working in Australia and Italy before moving to New Zealand in 2007 – Kelly has become a familiar face at the Auckland Home Show. Known for her direct, people-focused approach, she believes good design should feel authentic to the client, not the designer. Kelly's work champions New Zealand artisans and makers, and her ability to combine creativity with practicality has made her one of the most trusted interior designers in the country.

The bathroom has evolved from a purely practical space into a personal retreat – a place to unwind, recharge, and escape the day's demands.

Today's bathrooms are designed with the serenity of a home spa, blending soothing materials, soft lighting, and indulgent features. Whether you're planning a complete remodel or introducing spa-like touches, creating a bathroom that nurtures relaxation can transform your home experience.

The Yasu Bath inspired by Japanese soaking tubs blends deep comfort with clean, minimalist lines, making it perfect for the Japandi design trend.

Soft, grounding tones are bringing a new sense of tranquillity to bathroom design. This space pairs warm clay and sand hues with natural textures for a spa-like feel that soothes the senses. Curved forms, minimal fixtures, and gentle light create a serene retreat where every element works in harmony to promote relaxation and connection to nature. The Opal tapware collection brings warm, brushed elegance to this serene bathroom. With soft curves and clean lines, it pairs effortlessly with natural tones.

NERO HALL 3/4 STAND 432

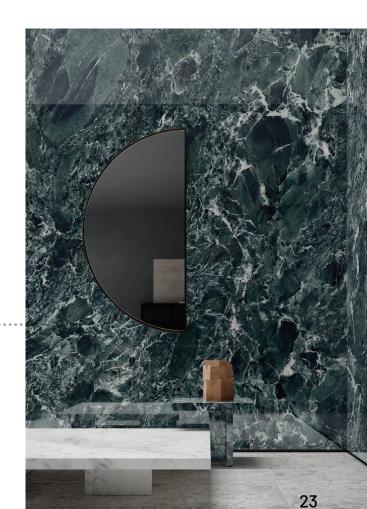

REFLECTIVE Mood

Today's bathroom mirrors are as much about technology and ambience as they are about reflection. Backlit designs create a soft, halo-like glow that adds warmth and luxury while eliminating harsh shadows—perfect for grooming or creating a spa-like mood. Sleek and frameless, the Code Euro Mirror range features a demister and soft backlit LED lighting for ambiance, available in sizes and shapes to suit any bathroom.

BOLD Contrast

Black accents are making a strong statement in contemporary bathrooms, adding definition and drama to otherwise neutral spaces. Here, deep charcoal cabinetry, matt-black tapware, and a sleek heated towel rail create a striking counterpoint to pale floors and a crisp white bath. The result is a sophisticated, high-contrast look that feels both modern and timeless.

REFINED Redefined

A new generation of tapware is redefining bathroom design, with textured handles adding sophistication, tactility, and a crafted finish. Aquatica's Circo Premium mixer pairs this detail with clean lines and a matte black surface, creating a bold yet refined statement that blends everyday function with contemporary style.

AQUATICA HALL 3/4 STAND 427

Tile DRENCHING

A bold, immersive design trend—is taking bathrooms by storm in 2025. It uses the same or contrasting tiles across walls, floors, and even ceilings to create an immersive, spa-like atmosphere that feels both luxurious and cohesive. Versatile coloured subway tiles are perfect for the Tile drenching effect, offering bold or subtle hues that wrap a space in continuous colour and texture.

Meet RUSSELL CLARK, the driving force behind LICENSED RENOVATIONS, a specialist team dedicated to creating homes that are as functional as they are beautiful. Known for his energetic approach and practical know-how, Russell thrives on helping homeowners navigate the renovation process with confidence. Russell's passion lies in bringing together the right people, the right plan, and the right details to make a renovation seamless and rewarding.

FIVE STEPS TO RENOVATION SUCCESS

/ GETTING STARTED

When you've just purchased a home to renovate, the first step is to understand its bones — check the structure, insulation, and essential services before diving into the fun stuff. Addressing these core elements early can prevent costly surprises later.

/ ASSEMBLING THE RIGHT TEAM

Renovations are a team sport. Bringing your builder, architect, and key trades together from the start helps everyone stay aligned on the vision and avoids midproject changes that can blow budgets and timelines. Russell recommends working with specialists who understand the complexity of renovations and can anticipate potential challenges before they arise. Beware the 'too-cheap' price!

/ KNOW YOUR BUDGET

A clear budget is one of the most powerful tools you have. Russell advises starting with a realistic figure that reflects both your wish list and the essential work required. Build in a contingency for the unexpected and factor in hidden costs such as compliance, scaffolding, or temporary living arrangements if needed. Knowing your financial boundaries early means you can make informed decisions, prioritise effectively, and avoid compromising on quality when it matters most.

/ PLANNING FOR SUCCESS

Map out your design choices early — from door handles to tile layouts — to keep momentum and avoid costly changes midbuild. Factor in lead times and product availability, especially for custom or imported pieces. Confirm details with your builder and suppliers so everyone works to the same plan. Russell's mantra is simple: the more decisions you lock in upfront, the smoother your project will run.

/ FINAL ADVICE

While shortcuts can be tempting, they often cost more in the long run. Invest in quality workmanship and materials that will stand the test of time. Whether you're making small updates or embarking on a full-scale transformation, a thoughtful approach will deliver a home that adds value, comfort, and joy for years to come.

When it comes to home interiors, there's no single rulebook to follow. Today's design landscape is rich with choice — from the clean lines of sleek minimalism to the layered warmth of a cosy, character-filled cottage. Hard floors or soft underfoot, timber or carpet, tile or stone — the possibilities are endless. The real trend? Play it your way.

WOOD and Wonder

The use of wood in modern interiors brings a sense of warmth and connection to nature. Extending across floors, walls, and cabinetry, timber adds texture and visual depth, creating a cohesive flow through the home. Balanced with clean lines and neutral tones, it delivers a timeless look that feels both contemporary and inviting. Warm wood tones bring natural texture and inviting style to this space.

FLOORING STUDIO HALL 3/4 STAND 358

GROUNDED Colour

Earth-inspired hues like olive green, terracotta, and warm brown are defining contemporary interiors. These rich tones create a cosy, grounded atmosphere, especially when combined with plush fabrics and sculptural shapes. Layered with complementary textures, the look feels both luxurious and inviting, offering a sophisticated way to bring nature's palette indoors. Olive and terracotta tones create a warm, luxurious, nature-inspired retreat.

Meet EMMA ADKINS, the creative force behind SAMPLE WORKSHOP — a fresh, approachable interior design studio making great design accessible. Her showroom holds 7,000+ samples and a team helping homeowners create beautiful, functional spaces without the fuss. Whether renovating, redecorating, or dreaming, Sample Workshop turns inspiration into action.

FIVE MINUTES WITH EMMA

EMMA ADKINS didn't follow the conventional path to design success — she built her own. Starting with a diploma earned via online study while working full-time, she blended real-world experience wwith formal training and launched Sample Workshop with one clear mission: to make interior design welcoming, transparent, and within reach.

"I wanted to change the idea that design is only for the wealthy," she says. "We're here to help real people make their spaces truly theirs."

Growing up around the family flooring business gave Emma early exposure to design from the ground up. Her dad took her to job sites, and at 14 she designed the family bach in Mangawhai. After experience in furniture retail and study through a Sydney-based design school, she set out to create a studio that empowered clients to be part of the process.

Opening Sample Workshop in 2019 took two years of building the showroom, sourcing samples, and convincing suppliers that a one-stop design space could work. Then came COVID, making it hard to operate for two years — but Emma and her team adapted, listening to clients, showing up, and building a reputation for practical, down-to-earth advice that doesn't compromise on style.

At the heart of Sample Workshop is Emma's belief in collaboration and clarity. Every client leaves with a curated sample board, not just a mood board. "We walk them through the why: why that timber clashes with that carpet, why that paint tone works with the natural light. It's about giving people confidence to make great choices."

Today, Emma sees a shift: more colour, more texture, more personality. "People are done playing it safe. They want to love where they live!" she says.

EMMA'S TOP HOT DESIGN TIPS

/ LAYER WITH TEXTURE Combine rugs, cushions, curved furniture and natural materials for cozy, character-filled spaces without clutter. Contrast soft and hard surfaces for interest.

/ EMBRACE EARTHY TONES
Neutral doesn't have to mean boring.
Warm terracotta pinks, muted greens, and soft rusts bring personality without overwhelming.

/ MIX OLD AND NEW Pair vintage furniture with modern decor. Restored heirlooms add soul and sustainability.

/ TRY WALLPAPER Removable vinyl wallpaper lets you experiment with pattern or texture without the long-term commitment.

AMIE BERGHAN EXPERT INSIGHT

Tell us a little about your background in flooring.

I joined Jacobsen four years ago via TileHaus, one of their sister companies. My early work was very design-focused, consulting with customers on layouts, textures, and finishes. Now my role involves creating market-specific content and tracking trends. It's a great mix of creativity and technical detail.

What's the first step when planning a flooring project?

Before thinking about design, identify the parameters you need to work within. That might be budget, household needs, or lifestyle factors. A family home with kids will have different requirements than a low-traffic apartment. Once those constraints are clear, you can start making informed design choices.

How important is timing?

Very. In residential projects, installer availability can be the biggest variable. Planning ahead helps avoid delays. Even if your installer is ready to go, you'll need a retailer to measure and quote. And the installer will need to prepare the sub floor. Allow for product lead times and build in a buffer — projects nearly always take longer than you think.

What should homeowners know about installation?

When planning out any wood look flooring, make a considered decision on which direction you want the floor pattern to run—if you don't specify this, you may end up with a result you don't like. Work with a qualified, reputable installer. It's tempting to go with the first person available, but poor installation can cost thousands to fix. Ask for references, check their experience with your chosen flooring type, and make sure they understand the specific requirements for your home.

What trends are you seeing right now?

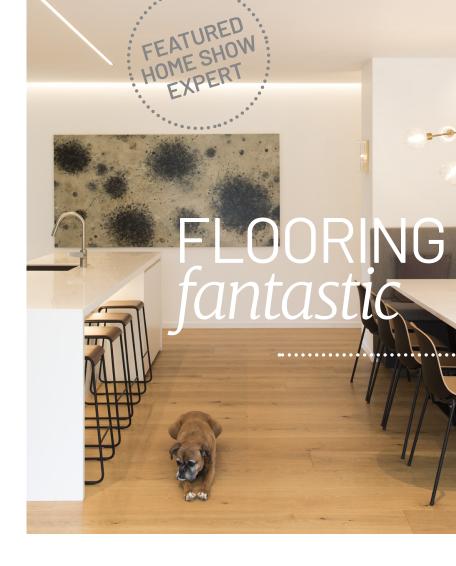

The biggest shift is towards hyper-personalisation. Instead of copying a magazine look, people want spaces that feel uniquely theirs. In flooring, luxury vinyl tile (LVT) is booming. It offers wood and stone looks with added durability and practicality, especially for high-traffic living areas. More homeowners are using resilient flooring in main spaces and reserving carpet for bedrooms.

Can you share a brand you're excited about?

We've recently taken on Karndean, a world-leading residential LVT range with incredibly realistic wood and stone looks. Once installed, it's hard to tell the difference from the real thing — even for someone like me who spends all day looking at flooring.

Where can visitors hear more from you?

I'll be presenting once a day, all four days of the Auckland Home Show, on upcoming flooring trends and how to choose the right product for your lifestyle.

Founded on family values, practical know-how, and strong retailer partnerships, JACOBSEN has been part of New Zealand's flooring industry for over 60 years, curating the best flooring from around the world to inspire Kiwi homeowners. COASTLINE Canvas

Deep blues and rich greens evoke the mystery and drama of the ocean, bringing a sense of depth and sophistication to interiors. Moody hues are reminiscent of stormy seas and dense coastal forests, creating a grounding effect while adding a luxurious, enveloping feel to a space. When used on walls, cabinetry or furniture, they offer a bold and contemporary aesthetic, perfect for creating an intimate or cocooning atmosphere. In this bold toned space, the back wall, shelves and side table are painted in Resene Welcome, cabinet in Resene Time Traveller and floor in Resene Colorwood Bask.

TAKE A Chance

Daring yet undeniably uplifting, golden yellow brings a fresh energy contrasted with favourite Resene neutrals. Bold choices can be surprisingly timeless. Whether used in crisp stripes or layered with texture, it radiates warmth and optimism – perfect for both homes and commercial spaces.

Take a chance with bold hues and patterns, like this space, Resene Pizza and Resene Sugar Loaf stripes, left wall and pillar in Resene Sugar Loaf, tongue-and-groove panel in Resene Pizza, flooring in Resene Colorwood Breathe Easy.

FOREVER Floral

Soft yet full of life, this palette captures the quiet beauty of a flourishing garden at dusk. Muted purples bring a sense of nostalgia and elegance, while layered greens echo the richness of leaves and stems, grounding the space in nature. It's a timeless take on florals – less about patterns, more about the feeling of stepping into a dreamy, botanical retreat. A gentle mix of hues creates an inviting space, with walls painted in Resene Tom Thumb and shelf and small bowl in Resene Marionette.

THE Full Effect

Resene FX Paint Effects Medium is a versatile medium designed to create a variety of decorative finishes, such as ragging, sponging and limewash effects. When mixed with your chosen Resene colour and applied over a basecoat, it allows for the creation of unique textures and patterns, adding depth and character to any surface. Dress up walls with a special paint effect that is bound to get the conversation started. This arch is painted in Resene Double Parchment, back wall painted with a base layer of Resene Sandtex in Resene Double Parchment with Resene FX Paint Effects Medium mixed with Resene Allspice over the top.

Nature's most grounding hues come together in this calming, layered palette of greens. A darker wood stain on the flooring also enhances the depth of a space for a strong foundation that anchors the room. Real foliage and natural materials like jute and ceramics bring an organic, textural element, reinforcing the connection to nature and adding a vibrancy to the scene. The result is a space that feels both deeply rooted and effortlessly serene. Create a soothing space with walls painted in Resene Pale Leaf. Window frames in Resene Palm Leaf, and flooring in Resene in Resene Spanish Green.

Colorwood Bark. Tabletop and far left stool

SIMPLY Put

A carefully layered palette of whites creates a refined, airy feel, while clean black accents add definition and contrast. This minimal yet sophisticated approach allows light to play beautifully in each space, highlighting subtle textures and materials. The simplicity of this palette reminds us that white is anything but boring – it's a canvas for effortless elegance.

Greys are calming and inviting, especially in living spaces. These walls are painted in Resene Flotsam, window frame in Resene Invincible, floor stain colour washed in Resene Colorwood Shade, stool in Resene Half Jumbo with Resene FX Pearl Shimmer over the top.

Outdoor living has moved well beyond the deck and barbecue. Today's designs embrace outdoor showers, louvres that filter light while creating extra room, and the growing popularity of spas and saunas as a restorative duo. These features combine comfort, wellness, and style, transforming backyards into true lifestyle spaces to be enjoyed year-round.

WHETHER the Weather

Louvres are transforming outdoor living, offering flexible control over light and shade. With a simple adjustment, they invite sunshine or provide shelter, extending the use of decks and patios. Both practical and stylish, they create adaptable spaces that feel like a seamless extension of the home.

TINY POOLS HALL 3/4 STAND 360

Founder of PARROT LANDSCAPING, DAVID RHODES brings years of expertise in crafting outdoor spaces that balance beauty, function, and sustainability. His team's award-winning landscapes transform gardens into extensions of the home, with a focus on thoughtful design, planting, and craftsmanship. David is one of our Auckland Home Show experts and will share his insights on how to create outdoor areas that not only look stunning but also work seamlessly for everyday living.

IT'S OFFICALLY spring, but winter is still in the air—and according to David Rhodes of Parrot Landscapes, now is the perfect time to create outdoor zones you'll actually use.

"We're seeing more people invest in freestanding pergolas, louvred roofs and sliding glass enclosures to create outdoor 'rooms' — warm, dry spaces that feel like natural extensions of the home," says Rhodes. "It's a cost-effective way to expand your living area without full structural consent. And it also can increase the value of your home."

Outdoor heating is also in high demand. "We're regularly installing everything from sunken fire pits to cast fireplaces and modern gas fire bowls," he says. "Most people opt for a gas bottle setup — it's easier and more flexible than hard-plumbed systems and looks amazing when styled with a planter or feature cover."

"Once the fire's in, people find themselves out here with a glass of wine most nights," he says.

For the floor underfoot, composite decking remains a popular low-maintenance choice. Rhodes' team also works with floating aluminium frame systems to provides textures like crazy paving or smooth porcelain to add a unique character and finish that brings the design together." These surfaces also hold up well in wet weather and are 'barefoot-friendly'. "Parrot always thinks of the practical and the aesthetic together," Rhodes says.

And it's not just about structure — privacy and atmosphere matter too. "We use instant hedges from Twining Valley Nurseries — they're grown up to two metres tall and offer immediate screening," says Rhodes. "Instant greenery changes the mood of a space immediately and clients are often amazed at how much more private and serene it feels overnight."

"Add batten screens, lighting, and planting, and it becomes a space you'll genuinely enjoy, even on the dark side of the house."

Lighting is key to bringing the whole space to life," he explains. "It adds ambience, extends usability, and if planned properly, can be installed without disrupting your landscaping later."

Rhodes always begins with a simple question: Why are you doing this? "Once we know why someone wants to transform their outdoor space — whether it's entertaining, relaxing, or creating something inspired by travel — we can design something beautiful and functional."

From concept to completion, Parrot Landscapes handles everything in-house, including VR walkthroughs, building, plumbing, planting and more. As Rhodes says: "that means clients get a smoother experience and consistent quality, from the first sketch to the final plant."
